😊 World Smile Day

Smiles are more powerful than we often realize. Research shows that smiling can lift your mood, reduce stress, and even boost your immune system.

Best of all, smiles are contagious - when you share one, you brighten not only your own day but someone else's too.

On World Smile Day, let's remember that the simplest gift we can give is free, universal, and always welcome: a smile.

Life Adventures of Our Very Own

DOC Shepherd

WINTER IN MISSISSIPPI-Around 1938

This is how it all began. My father had built a house trailer on a burned out trailer chaises he found along highway 13. We had an 8.5 horsepower Ford. It had just enough power to get over a few hills.

We decided to travel to Biloxi Mississippi. When we first got to Biloxi we stayed in a trailer park where we were among a group of Ring Ling Bros. Circus performers. And watched them perform. My father got to know that owner of the shrimp and oyster canning factories there and we moved to the beach along the wharf of a mile long where the shrimp and oyster boats came in under sail. People gave us equipment and we caught crabs and mother cooked them. We watched the fishermen use throw nets to catch fish from the piers. We did not swim in the gulf as we could see sting rays in the water. We took a tour of the oyster canning factory near where we parked.

The workers opening the oysters were often cut by the sharp shells of the oysters.

The state of Mississippi at that time had complete segregation. There were white towns and "colored" communities. The "colored" people had to leave the white towns after work and we watched them leave in groups.

There were white schools and "colored" schools. In the schools we went to there were no "colored" and very few girls in the upper grades as many girls were married by that time. On our trips to school we enjoyed picking up pecans from the streets that were lined with pecan trees.

We were suddenly kicked out of the Biloxi schools as father was a chiropractor and wouldn't let us be vaccinated. So we moved to Gulf Port, Mississippi which was the next town. We then went to school in Gulf Port. The school was only three blocks from the beach where I walked to the beach and picked sea shells on my lunch hour. We parked our trailer on the edge of the white town a few blocks from the school. My mother was often sick. We parked in the backyard of a widow woman with children and we played together. One time the widow woman took us into town and bought us bananas off the boat.

In Gulf Port it was warm enough that they put the water lines on a fence above ground. We had a fig tree next to our trailer.

When we first came we took a side trip into Florida along the coast to see the burned out mansion of Jefferson Davis-the president of the south during the Civil War. Around the burned out mansion there was a shrub called Palmetto that cut the legs as you walked through.

Near Biloxi there was a high bridge near Pascagoula where my dad fished from the bridge and caught an ocean like white fish.

At Biloxi in the winter my Grandmother died. We took the trailer and drove north but met a series of bad snow storms so went back to Biloxi.

In spring we left Gulf Port and traveled North. We stopped at Centralia, Illinois where my father painted signs on oil trucks. Centralia, Illinois was then an oil boomtown. The night would turn bright from the flares.

My brother Bill and I got a job to paint the inside kitchen of a barbeque diner. It was a disaster as the walls were coated with grease from the barbeque cooking.

We arrived home in time for a few weeks of school.

We had a young couple who parked a trailer home in the driveway and looked after our home.

The Little Things

Margaret Lindsay

It's the little things we do and say,
That make or mar the livelong day;
It's not the thing we do once in a while,
But the little things that tell the mile.
The little acts of kindness done,
The smiles that greet the rising sun,
The words of cheer to those we meet,
That make this life so bright and sweet.

Smiling is Infectious

Spike Milligan

Smiling is infectious, you can catch it like the flu,
When someone smiled at me today, I started smiling too.
I passed around the corner and someone saw my grin-
When he smiled I realized, I'd passed it on to him.
I thought about that smile, then I realized it's worth:
A single smile, just like mine, could travel round the earth.
So if you feel a smile begin, don't leave it undetected-
Let's start an epidemic quick, and get the world infected!

Laughing Matters

No Dogs Allowed

Two friends are walking their dogs— a Dalmatian and a Chihuahua—when they smell something delicious coming from a nearby restaurant.

The guy with the Dalmatian says, “Let’s get something to eat.”

But the guy with the Chihuahua says, “We can’t go in there, we have dogs with us.”

So, the first guy says, “just follow my lead.” He puts on a pair of sunglasses and walks into the restaurant.

“Sorry,” says the owner, “no pets allowed.”

“But this is my seeing-eye dog,” the guy with the Dalmatian says.

“A Dalmatian?”

“Yes, they're using them now.”

The owner says, “Very well, then, come on in.”

The guy with the Chihuahua repeats the process and gets the same response from the owner. “Sorry pal, no pets allowed.”

“But this is my seeing-eye dog,” says the second guy.

“A Chihuahua?” asks the incredulous owner.

“A Chihuahua?!” says the man in the dark glasses. “They gave me a Chihuahua?!”
